PLANS OF ACTORS AND MANAGERS.

Manager M. W. Tobin will sever his connection with Dockstader's Minstrels to-morrow to take the management of Margaret Mather's tour this season. His relations with Mr. Dochstader, however, are of the best. Mr. Tobin explains that his chief reason for changing is to save himself from his many friends in Now-York and by doing so save something out of his salary every week, Jacques Kruger writes from Salem, Ohio, that his new The principal character, he says, is drawn on the same lines as the Photographer in "Dreams." W. H. Thomas will manage the piece this season.

Zelie de Lussan will leave the Boston Ideals after this season and go to London to fill a long engagement

Stuart Robson has bought the full rights of "The nrietta," from Bronson Howard, for $25,000 cash. He will take it on the road this season, together with the new play which Steele Mackage is writing for him. Charles Wyndham's American tour has been abandoned,

Edward Harrigan read a new play to bis yesterday, and will probably replace "Waddy Goegan" with it before long. The title has not yet been decided

Miss Cora Tanner and R. M. Hooley have each paid $50 for a box at the benefit which is to be tendered by local managers to John P. Smith, at the Star Theatre,

An entirely new version of "Belphegor," made directly An entirely new version of "Beipnegor," made directly from the French original, is being prepared for Frederick Warde, the young tragedian, who will add it to his already large repertory this season. "Beipnegor" has been played but a few times in this country since Challes Dillon first made it popular.

Miss Elizabeth Roberts has been engaged for the Grand Opera House next week, to play the part created by Isa-belle Evessen in "The Kuthr Diamond." Should the play meet with favor on the West Side, Mr. Aldrich may decide to fill the time now being held for him out of town.

Constance Du Flou, the sister of Edward Warren, the comedian, died suddenly in London last Saturday from chlorosis. Mme. Du Flou was herself a member of the theatrical profession a few years ago.

Manager Rosenquest has declied to devote the Bijou Theatre hereafter exclusively to musical comedies and other light attractions. He firmly believes that the Bljou is the one house of all the theatres in this city best

Mrs. Sol Smith is reported to have left Richard Mansfield's company in London and to be on her way back to America.

Dispatches from Chicago yesterday announced that Nat. C. Goodwin was married quietly last week to a New-England belie, named Miss Nellie Baker. In their efforts trusted friends were allowed to be present at the cere-

Miss Leila Farrell, the soubrette, who recently created a slight scheation by suing Goodwin for breach of promise, declined to taik about the marriage yesterday. She almitted that she has known of the marriage from the first and that she had not yet withdrawn her suit. More than that, however, she would not say.

At the close of Augustin Daly's regular season next spring. Sol Smith Russell will take possession of the theatre for the summer and present E. E. Ridder's latest comedy, "A Poor Relation," which was tried with good results at Columbus, Ohio, last Tuesday night. Miss Rasina Vokes was to have Daly's Theatre for the summer, but she delayed too long in signing the contract, so Russell's offer was accepted. Miss Vokes subsequently engaged the Fifth Avenue Theatre for her season. gaged the Fifth Avenue Theatre for her season.

A special matinee performance of "A Legal Wreck" was given at the Madison Squore Theatre yesterday, under the auspices of the Jacksonville Ladies' Relief Committee, in aid of the yellow fever fund. The per-Committee, in aid of the yellow lever fund. The per-formance never went smoother or better, while the audi-ence was a large and brilliant one. The ladies of the com-mittee were also present. The total receipts amounted to $450, all of which was turned over to the fund.

A new and original play, written by Mr. Clinton Stuart, will be produced by Mr. A. M. Palmer at a mat-ince at the Madison Square Theatre on October 25. The title is "Beauty Abroad." The subject is American comen in foreign lands. The scene is laid at Aix-les-lains. The piece is in four acts and it contains fifteen persons, French, Italian, English and American, Mr. Stuart has given many indications of his talent in dramatic writing, and this effort is much commended by those who are acquainted with it.

Three months ago Mr. Gillette presented " A Legal Wreck" at the Mailson Square Theatre, and since that time without internassion the attendance has been large. The management of the Madison Square announce that seats can be booked inclusive to November 10, at which time the play will have passed its 100th performance.

At the conclusion of the Coquelin-Hading engageme Mr. Palmer will take the direct management of his theatre and present the first of his own productions. It is so invested as to give each of them an income of over $300,000 a year.

POOR ABBEY! From The New-York Herald.

From The New-York Herald.

We reprint elsewhere the gentlemanly and courteous editorial in which The Tribune announces the withdrawal by Mr. Abbey of his theatrical advertisements from its columns. The action of Mr. Abbey is ridiculous, for he has intelligence enough to know that no journal is ever influenced in fair, just criticism by its business relations with a theatre. Such a thing might be possible in Deadwood City, or Arizona Gulch, or some of our wild Western Territories, but not in New-York.

or some of our wife.

New-York.

The Tribune is to be complimented upon its good.

The Albey, however, is in this unfortunate. New-York.

The Tribune is to be complimented upon its good temper. Mr. Abbey, however, is in this unfortunate position: He is about to make a tour with his company. The newspapers on the road will know that he will tolerate from them nothing but praise. Consequently, no matter how warmly any journal in honest commendation speaks his praise, it will be regarded as a "box-office notice" or a paid "news" item. This will be a cold comfort to the ambition of his artists, who in the long run will prefer criticism to fulsome, ignorant, mersenary commendation.

Some years ago there was a foolish crusade against. "The Herald" like this of Mr. Abbey against The Tribune. Then most of the managers united, and vaunted in their posters that they "did not advertise in 'The New-York iteraid." All of which was an immense advertisement for "The Herald," and in the end the managers were heartily ashamed. The relations between the New-York newspapers at that time were somewhat strained, and our contemporaries took silent sides with the managers. We, however, regard the question as one of primary interest to the public, and commend the self-respect and courage of The Tribune as a public service.

We are informed that the special criticism which gave Mr. Abbey offence was the following:

No man could express better than Mr. Coquelin does the thing that he understands, within the limited field of his mental aptitude—the field, manifestly, of low comedy. His manner of listening, his reposeful moments of dazed reflection, his aspect of complete earnestness, his graphic identification with the part—these are splendid merits.

reflection, his aspect of complete earnestness, his graphic identification with the part—these are splendid merits. They did not serve, however, to lift the character into the realm of comedy. It never rose above the level of such nature as used to please in the minstrei buffoonery of the late Charles Backus, who, indeed, was not infrequently suggested by this impersonation.

Mr. Cognelin's portrayal of usorious bewilderment and eympathetic vulgarity.

ITS THIRD ANNUAL CONVENTION BEGUN-GROWTH OF THE ORDER.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of the Protestant

Episcopal Church, began its third annual convention yesterday morning at St. George's Church, Sixteenthst. and Rutherford place. The Brotherhood organized in Chicago on St. Andrew's Day, 1883, and now numbers 206 chapters and about 4,000 members. overnoon is " the spread of Christ's Kingdom among young men." The convention was opened by the celebration of the boly communion, at St. George's Church, by Bishop Potter, who delivered an address of welcome to the delegates. After the services at the church, the business of the convention began in the St. George's Memorial House. The roll of delegates was called, showing that about 200 delegates were present from, among other places, Salt Lake City, Omaha, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Macon, Ga.; Erie, Penn.; St. Louis, Evansville, Ind.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Hyde Park,

III.; Cleveland, Cincinnatt, Boston, Worcester, Springfield, and Washington.

The following permanent officers were unanimously elected: President, Edmund Billing, Boston; first vicepresident, H. S. Cutter, Macon, Ga.; second vice-president, W. G. Mather, Cleveland; third vice-president, H. A. Sill, New-York; secretary, John I. Kennedy, Omaha; assistant secretary, W. N. Sturgis, Chicago. The report of the Council of the Brotherhood was read by James L. Houghteling, secretary. It shows that eighty-seven new chapters, with about 1,000 members, have been organized since the last convention. The treasurer's report showed the receipts for the year to have been 84,157 88 and the expenditures The assets are $834 81, which excoef the liabilities by $569 81. The expenses of publishing the Brotherhood paper, "St. Andrew's Cross," were $356 64 in excess of the receipts. The convention adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. In the evening a public meeting was held in St. Chrysostom's Chapel, and addresses on "The Work of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews" were delivered by the Rev. Drs. W. S. Rainsford, James S. Stow, of Philadelpha; H. Y. Satterlee, and James L. Houghteling, of Chicago.

COLUMBIA FRESHMEN MUST NOT SMOKE. The sophomore class of Columbia College seems de-termined not to let the spirit of antagonism between the two lower classes of the college die out, although the freshmen have passed a resolution declaring that they will not rush the sophomores either individually or collectively Yesterday in the first class meeting of the sophomores the following resolution was unanimously carried:

Resolved, That the freshmen be not allowed to smoke pipes or cigars in or around the Columbia College buildings, and that copies of this resolution be posted conspicuously on the college grounds.

The result of the resolution will be watched with interest by the upper classmen, and it is expected that "fun" will be seen to-day, as the freshmen say that they will not allow the signs to be posted. The following officers were elected for the sophomore class: President, Victor Mapes; vice-president, Montague Howard; secretary, H. S. Coykendall; treasurer, F. Chesebrough, historian, C. C. Kaibfleisch.

THE FARMERS' CLUB AT DINNER, Philadelphia, Oct. 18 (Special).-The Farmers' Club took dinner at "Wootton," George W. Child's country house, this afternoon. Among those present were: General William T. Sherman, General Simon Cameron, Senator J. Donald Cameron, Wayne McVeagh, Frank Thomson, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Frederick Fraley, president of the Board of Trade; Mayor Fitler, Vice-President A. A. McLeod, of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad; W. L. Davis, vice-president of "The New-York World" Publishing Company; and William V. McKean, Editor of "The Public Ledger." The usual planting of a tree that marks all these festive occasions, was done by General Sherman. Among the many well known persons who have planted trees at Wootten are Chauncey M. Depew, Cornelius Van lerbilt, Henry Irving, Lishop Potter, of New-York; ex-President McCosh, of Prince-ton; Goldwin Smith, and Mrs. Nelle Grant Sartoris. Each tree that has been planted bears a bronze plate with the botanical and common names of the tree, the name of the planter and the date.

his summers at his cottage at Merchantville, N. The house is large, and upon his return to Philadelphia recently, the property was invaded by an army of mechanics, who began tearing it to pieces. No one about the place could give a satisfactory answer as to the identity of the future occupants, but after awhile it was noticed that Dr. Jones, the proprietor of a hospital for the insane, made frequent visits to the house. This morning the secret leaked out that the house was being prepared for the reception of Robert Garrett, of Baltimore, now in a private hospital at Ringwood, N. J. This morning the statement was positively made that this is to be Mr. Garrett's home, and that he is to be under the care of Dr. Jones. It is also said that some members of Mr. Garreit's family will live in the Merchantville house, so that he can be more carefully attended to. It is expected that the invalid will be taken there about the 1st of November.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS. Buffalo, Oct. 18 .- R. M. Hunt, of New-York, was to-day re-elected president of the American Institute of Architects, J. A. Blorr, of New-York, secretary, and O. R. CONSECRATION OF THE BISHOP OF DELAWARE. Wilmington, Oct. 18 .- The Rev. Dr. J. Leighton Coleman, of Sayre, Penn., bishop elect of the Epis copal Diocese of Delaware, was formally consecrated to that dignity at St. John's Church this morning, in the presence of a large congregation. Bishop White head, of Pittsburg, preached the consecration sermon and Bishops Howe, of Central Pennsylvania; Scarborough, of New-Jersey, and Adams, of the Eastern Maryland Diocese; Assistant Bishop Rulison, of Pennsylvania, and many clergymen of Pennsylvania Delaware and Maryland took part in the exercises Bishop Coleman, who succeeds the late Bishop Alfred Lee, the first bishop of Delaware, is fifty-three years old, a native of Philadelphia, and son of the Rev. Dr. John Coleman, rector of Trinity Church, Philadelphia.

INSTALLING THE REV. DR. WESLEY R. DAVIS. Impressive exercises were held last evening at the installation of Dr. Wesley R. Davis as paster of the Brooklyn. The spacious church was filled and the pulpit was decked with smilax and masses of foliage and flowering plants. President John S. Gardner, of the South Classis of Long Island, presided. Dr. James M. Buckley, of "The Christian Advocate," made the prayer; Dr. Edward B. Coe, of the Collegiate Reformed Church in Fifth-ave., this city, preached the sermon; Dr. William Ormiston charged the paster, and Dr. C. L. Wells charged the people. The other ministers taking part in the services were Dr. A. R.
Thompson and the Rev. Messrs. W. D. Perry, A. H.
Brush, W. W. Clark and U. D. Gulick. Dr. Davis pronounced the benediction. Dr. Coe's sermon was an eloquent appeal for the preaching and service of Christ.

MEETING OF A HISTORICAL SOCIETY. Dr. Charles C. Lee presided last evening at the meeting the United States Catholic Historical Society, No. 20

West Twenty-seventh-st. A large number of priests and prominent Catholic laymen were present. A "Historical Sketch of the Rev. John Thayer," written by the Rev. Arthur J. The Bluess of Governor Hamilton has taken an alarming turn for the worse. Since he was taken ill, several months ago, he has been suffering with a complication of various diseases, but owing to his strong constitution he steadily improved. Within the last few days, however, he has contracted pneumonia, which, it is likely, his present enfeebled system will not be able to resist.

CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

The first session of the Woman's Christian Teming, will in all probability be lively and interesting. It may prove, in fact, the most exciting part of the convention, as it will involve the decision of the question whether Mrs. J. Ellen Foster shall or shall not continue to be a member of the Union. This point will come up for settlement during the roll call, and President Willard will be asked for a ruling as to whether she sustains the notion of the official organ of the Union in declaring that Mrs. Foster had censed to be "in spirit if hear, Mr. Cleveland's re-election is assured." ing, will in all probability be lively and intering that Mrs. Foster had censed to be " in spirit if hear, Mr. Cleveland's re-election is assured." not in name a Christian Temperance Union woman. If Miss Willard declines to give a decision, an appeal will probably be made to the convention, and if that body decides to stand by General, and the latter's personal appeal to Collector woman." If Miss Willard declines to give a desuch a tyrannical policy may withdraw from the convention.

MRS. FOSTER'S FRIENDS IN EARNEST. This, of course, would be an unfortunate beginning, but Mrs. Foster's friends are thoroughly Chinese Exclusion act, on Wednesday, was told yes-in carnest and do not intend to submit to what terday that he would have to return to England. they believe to be most unjust treatment. Said | of them yesterday: W. C. T. U. women, every one of us. We want to see this convention as successful as the others have been, but we shall certainly protest with all our might against any action involving the expulsion of a woman like Mrs. Foster, who has denote a woman like Mrs. Foster, who has famous and bloody battle of Cedar Creek, at a dinner has she done to merit condemnation? Nothing night. Only one of the field officers, Major F. C. but to assert a right guaranteed to every member of the Union—that of exercising her political privileges, as an individual. The Union requires nothing more than that its members shall subscribe to the total abstinence pledge and the constitution of the National Union. Miss Willard says so herself in her eard to the papers published to-day. No question is raised about any one's political faith. Yet in the face of all this we hear this talk of thrusting out one of our most loyal members, because she declares herself to be a Republican.

our progress as a Union. Is it in the interests of temperance work? I think not. Mrs. Chesia, the appropriated school to the processing of the country under an agreement to preach may be prevented from landing. allow Mrs. Chapin, the unreconciled rebel, to allow Mrs. Chapin, the unreconciled feoet, to continue to declare her everlasting antipathy, to the Union and everything Republican? Oh! I haven't patience to discuss this thing temperately. It is too outrageous, and I cannot think the majority of the delegates will adopt such an unwise and unjust policy, even if Miss Willard is led by her Third perty affiliations to indorse the action of "The Union Signal" in reading Mrs. Foster out of the association. Will the Iowa delegates and other friends of Mrs. Foster really bolt? Oh. I cannot speak authoritatively on that point. They are discussing the question now. It is a serious problem, and we are all reluctant to do anything that will injure the Union. Yet something must be done. The Union is prosperous, but do you notice the fact that it has really grown but little since it made the alliance with the Prohibition party in 1844? Look at the number of delegates here. Only 400, and we have had 500 at other conventions in the past. Not only this, but we know that when the Union ceased to be non-partisan in its methods hundreds of members withdrew. We have not gained much ground under the new policy. Let us hope the convention will realize this fact and recede from its partisan position. That would make this a glorious meeting."

The reporter's seats were in such a position that all that could be heard of S. B. Dickie's address was "Dramshop-saloon-fire-Republic- misrepresentation "Dramshop-saloon-fire-Republic History Research up, said I—The Tribune is a conspicuous coward." This spasmodic lucubration was more than once interrupted by cheers for Harrison, Blaine and The Tribune. Ex-Governor St. John, George R. Scott, ex-Judge Groo and General Clinton B. Fish also spoke. General Fisk thought that there was never any young party in the country so rapidly marching on to dominion a the Republican party now.

Dr. Lawrence told The Tribune reporter that h

MISS BAYMOND AND HER PRIEND'S JEWELS, Francisca Lois Raymond, who robbed Mrs. H. C. Mills, with whom she had boarded at No. 700 Sixth-avs., of several articles of jewelry a few weeks ago, was brought to Jefferson Market Court yesterday. Detective McNaught informed Justice Gorman that the complainant was not likely to appear, as he had received the following dispatch from her: "I am too ill to go to court." McNaught asked to have the prisoner remanded to Police Headquarters until to-day, but the Judg refused and said : " I don't propose to hold this woman any longer than this afternoon without a complaint." Frankle was committed to the jail. Mrs. Mills was able to come to court in the afternoon. She testified that Miss Raymond, on October 11, stole one pair of solitaire diamond carrings valued at $1,100, a cluster diamond ring worth $150, a small cluster diamond ring valued at $75 and a solitaire ring worth $125. Detective McNaught swore that he arrested Miss Raymond in Boston on Tuesday ami found a small cluster diamond ring and two pawn tlekets, representing some part of Mrs. Mills's jewels, in her posthe property of Mrs. Mills, but denied the charge of hav ing stolen it. During the time that Miss Raymond lived with the widow, she said that she frequently were the jewels, sometimes without the knowledge of Mrs. Mills. As Miss Raymond desired an adjournment, the case was adjourned until to-morrow

CALIFORNIA WINES AS CHEAP AS MILK.

From The San Francisco Examiner.

President Wetmore, of the State Board of Viticulture, some time ago remarked that the great obstacle to the sale of California wines in the Eastern States is the high price demanded by the retail dealers, "California wines in the Eastern States is the high price demanded by the retail dealers, "California wine," he said, "sold by the barrel in New-York, is cheaper than milk. Yet the dealers demand a profit of from 100 to 500 per cent on every gallon. It is this barrier we are to break down. Instead of our wines remaining a table luxury, we must make them as cheap or cheaper than the a or coffee. It is the duty of every hotel-keeper to furnish wine witheout extra charge to his guests as he does the latter beverages. He could do it just as cheaply and it is just as whoissome, while in the end he would make a preater profit."

J. S. Post, of St. Louis, proposes that an organization shall be formed with headquarters in San Francisco, and branches in the principal cities and towns of the couldity. The head concern shall huy all the wine off ted by producers, and the branches shall be furnished with this wine at cost. It is estimated that the wine could be sold to consumers at SI a gallon and a good profit realized. The theory is advanced that by this pian the puce wines of California, being as cheap as milk would soon supplant the imported wines, beers and liquors which now rule the market.

WINDY PROHIBITION ORATORY.

STRIKING FEATURES OF THE MEETING ON THE STEPS OF THE SUB-TREASURY.

That was a windy meeting which the Prohibitionists held on the Sub-Treasury steps yesterday afternoon. The October wind not only swept up Wall-st, and blew through the whiskers of the orators that had any, but it permeated their speeches. W. T. Wardwell, formerly a keen Democrat, and now the Prohibition candidate for Mayor, presided. Among those was stood by him on the platform—the same one that was used by the Democrats in their "Down-town Business Men's" demonstration—and who mingled with the people in the street below, were Dr. R. NEW-YORK AND LONDON CAB FARES. Letter to The Philadelphia Ledger.

Letter to The Philadelphia Ledger.

A gentleman who arrived from England yesterday says he paid the backman $3.25 for conveying himself, wife and a couple of trunks from the steamship what, foot of Christophers-t, to Brooklyn Heights-a distance of about two miles-whereas he obtained precisely the same service in Liverpool for two shillings sterling-or about fifty cents. The service is performed on similar reasonable terms in Edinburgh, Glasgow and Dublin, and the consequence is many more people ride in cabs and carriages there than is the case here.

MR. WENTWORTH'S ANNUAL DINNER.

From The Chicago Times.

He "Long John" Wentworth) walked into Chicago fifty-two years ago, and, knowing no one, he walked over on Waterst, and sat down to dinner walked restaurant of a Mrs. Muser. He ("Long John" Wentworth) walked into Chicago fifty-two years ago, and, knowing no one, he walked over on Waterst, and sat down to dinner in the restaurant of a Mrs. Murphy. She attended to the wants of her guests herself. She took Mr. Wentworth's order and served it. She was attentive to him without trying to be officious, and he liked it. They came to know one another well. Every year after his first dinner there Mr. Wentworth made it a rule to take an anniversary dinner with Mrs. Murphy, no matter where she was, until he had taken forty-nine. Then he said to her: "The next year will be my fiftieth in Chicago, and I want you to take a dinner with me one year from to-day at the Calumet Club. I will have it prepared, and it shall be worthy of the occasion." Mrs. Murphy consented. The time came, and Mr. Wentworth was sick. He sent his regrets to Mrs. Murphy, and also word that on the fifty-first anniversary, if they were both living, she should have the dinner. The fifty-first anniversary came, but Mrs. Murphy was dead.
